NEWS AND VIEWS . . .

And What Have You

By BOB CRAIG

You have probably noticed by now that school will be starting a little earlier this fall, Aug. 24 to be exact, and that teachers will start even sooner than that. Under the changes in the minimum foundation program made by the legislature this past session school will be five days longer this year than last and teachers will be working 15 more days.

For this the teachers will get paid one extra month, or 10-months instead of nine. We do not know what the kids get out of this deal except a week more of school. At least their mothers should enjoy it.

Along with this extra month's pay and a raise in salary as passed by the last legislative session the teachers over the state will be getting an average of $1,050 more this year than last. This increase, which will be added to each year for the next several years, is causing many problems in the school districts across the state.

While the state pays the biggest part of this increase, it is still up to the local districts to pick up the tab on a goodly share of it. In Hamlin it will be about 30 percent or around $300 each for over 50 teachers.

A starting teacher this fall with a bachelor's degree will receive $6,000. By 1975 the same beginning teacher would start out at $10,000 a year. That is if they can get a job.

This may seem strange to say since there has been a major shortage of teachers for so long but it may be true.

Already, we have begun to reach the point where there are more teachers than jobs and it is expected to get worse (worse for those looking for jobs but much better for the school systems).

Across the nation, it is estimated that the teacher surplus is general, but projections indicate that there will be three times as many surplus teachers in 1971 and this will continue for the next several years.

New teachers entering the job market are finding few vacancies. But older, experienced teachers are feeling a strain, too, as some schools are hiring new teachers at less salary and letting the older ones go.

There seems to be two reasons for this sudden increase in teachers available for jobs. The first is that with the pay scales going up more and more people are entering the profession and the second is that school systems across the nation are finding the high cost of education just more than they can afford and are cutting out as many positions as they can.

The Los Angeles school system will reduce teaching positions by 2,000 positions this year, as one example.

It may well be that the day of paying above state schedule is past for most schools as this was a measure to attract hard to find teachers.

Of course, there is a limit to reducing the number of teachers and a limit to the amount of money that can be saved on teacher salaries. And there will always be a demand for good teachers. In a time of a surplus, however, it is logical to assume that the good teachers will replace mediocre teachers, although there is no guarantee that it will work out that way.

After working for years to get their salaries up to a standard of other professions, and it looks like they have succeeded, it may be hard for some to face the fact that they have priced themselves out of the market.

We hope that we can get to the point that we only have room in our schools for the truly professional teachers—the ones that are truly dedicated and the ones that work to stay abreast of the times.

Local Pair Save Youth from Lake Stamford Sunday

A tragedy was averted Sunday by the quick action of Mike Smith, 20, a Hardin-Simmons student who was on an outing at Lake Stamford with his parents, Rev. and Mrs. Vergil Smith.

A youth, believed to be about 17 years old was at the Anchor, a lake concession spot, was floating on an innertube. The innertube turned over and the boy who later said he could not swim was in grave danger in deep water.

Mike heard the cries for help and rescued the boy. Rev. Smith, who is employed at Foster Funeral Home here, gave the boy artificial respiration and said that his lungs were already filling with water when he was rescued.

After the boy was revived, he told Mike, "You saved my life." The Smiths did not learn the youngster's name.

Mike is a law enforcement major at H-SU and is minor in physical education. Just this summer he is enrolled in an advanced swimming course at the university.

Dates Set for Mail Referendum On Wheat Crop Marketing Quotas

Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin, on July 1, 1970, proclaimed July 27-31 as the dates for a mail referendum on 1971-crop wheat marketing quotas. By law, in the absence of new legislation, the 1971 wheat crop comes under the provisions of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, as amended. This Act requires that a marketing quota referendum applicable to the 1971 crop be conducted on or before August 1, 1970.

The Agricultural Act of 1965, as amended, extended its voluntary wheat program through the 1970-crop year, and specifically suspended marketing quotas for wheat producers only for the duration of the Act.

Previously announced for the 1971 crop wheat was a national wheat marketing quota of 1,210 million bushels, along with a national allotment of 43.5 million acres.

To be announced in advance of the referendum will be the price-support loan rate for 1971-crop wheat estimated domestic certificate value, required acreage dividend percentages, and other program details. County ASCS offices about one week prior to the referendum will mail program information to wheat producers, along with the ballot voting instructions and individual farm allotments. These individual allotments will be based on the 1971 national allotment of 43.5 million acres, as compared to the 45.5 million-acre allotment in effect for the current crop year.

Marketing quotas, to be put in effect, must be approved by two-thirds or more of those voting in the referendum. If quotas are approved, producers will be limited to their allotment acreage beyond which they cannot harvest without a marketing quota penalty. Any excess acreage production would be subject to penalty unless it is stored under bond. If they remain within their allotments and divert the required acreage, they'll be eligible for price-support loans and domestic wheat marketing certificate payments. If the referendum fails to carry, producers staying within their 1971 allotments and complying with other terms and conditions which may be prescribed by the Secretary, would be eligible for support loans at 50 percent of parity.

Jaycee-ettes Say 'Thank You' for Festival Support

The following letter from the Hamlin Jaycee-ettes is directed to the people of Hamlin.

The Jaycee-ettes wish to express thanks to those who made it possible to have the annual beauty pageant. It would not have been possible without the sponsorship of the merchants. As far as it being a money making project, it is not. And there is a lot of hard work involved. But it is worth everything to see the joy and happiness that the girls receive, whether they be 3 or 19. But we know our limitations. Without the town's support, nothing is possible. We feel it is our civic duty to improve confidence, beauty and charm in our home town girls.

Summer Checklist

Like, everyone says summer is a special time—but when's the last time you did something about it? Why not make this summer something special? Here's a five-point checklist to help you make the most of the take-it-easy months.

*Look your best... summer lip gloss to spark up a summer tan; painted toenails to peek through wide-open sandals; a new hairdo to preview the new back-to-school you. (If it doesn't work out, it will always grow back by September.)

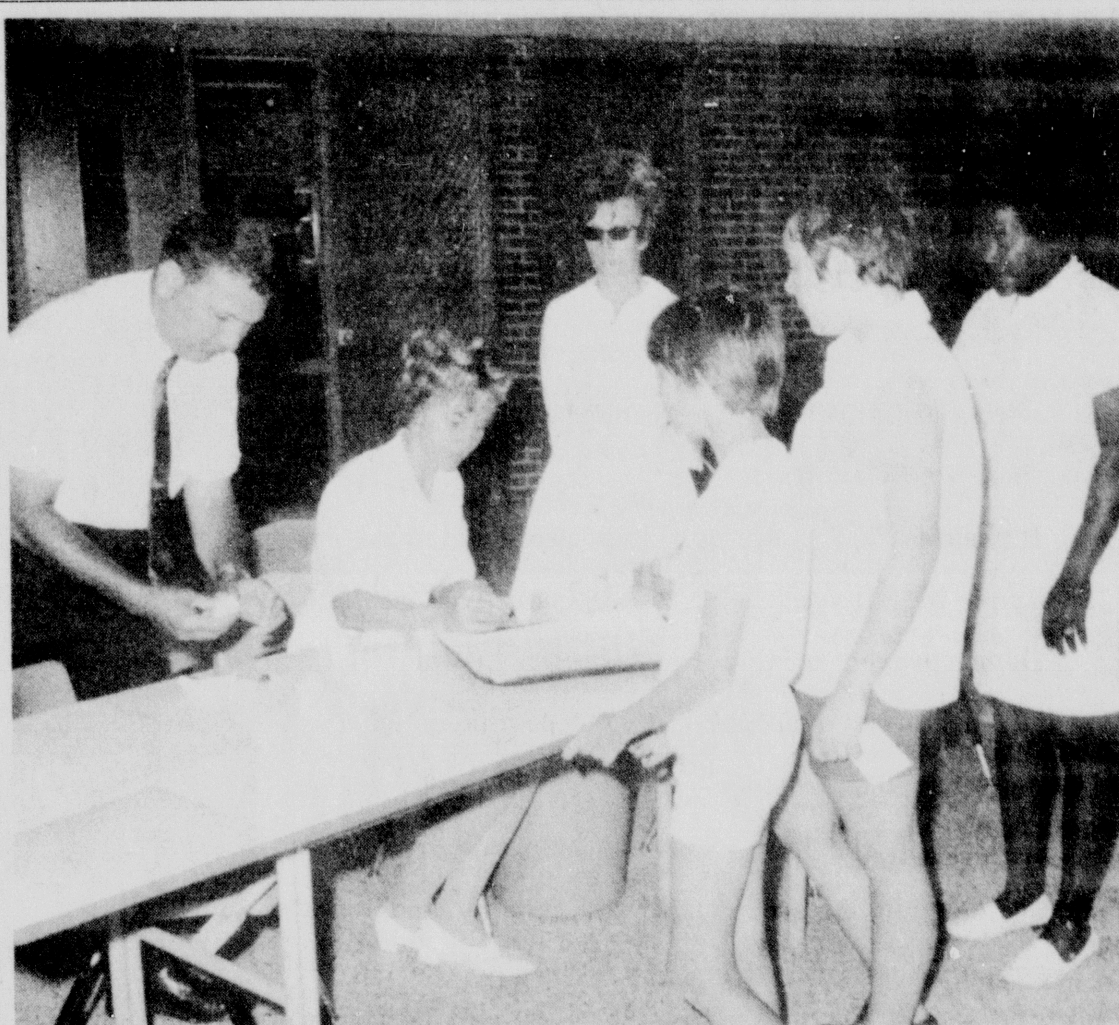

*Shape up... Eat less, do more (summer is full of active living). You'll slim down just in time to fit into the new fall styles.

*Shop now. Summer is when the fall selections are best; no crowds in the stores, either. Get a step ahead by shopping the new looks that look best on you. Try a longer-length skirt in the light summer weight; an inexpensive investment, compared with winter wools, and a good way to experiment with the mid of madness.

*Sharpen up your hostess skills. Brighten the dog-day doldrums with a perfect party—for no occasion at all. Just fun—all summer informal, relaxed and easy-do. Instead of the same, old chips and dips, try a fresh new approach to flavor. Barbara Mahoney, the Wise Foods party counselor, likes spicy tastes to sharpen summer appetites. Take her suggestion and stage a south-of-the-border blast—citrusy drinks with plenty of punch, eggs scrambled with dried hot peppers (they come in a can), creamy curried yogurt dips served with barbecue-flavored chips or cheese chings. Or play it cool with Swiss-style cheese wedges, served with raw vegetables, plenty of chips and brimming tureens of chilled soups, to drink from mugs. Serve several for variety; it's the spice of summer life.

There's only one summer a year. And this is your year to make the most of it!

Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Decker visited two weeks with their children and their families. Mr. and Mrs. George Decker in Canton, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Decker and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Spivey, both families of Lindale.

POLIO VACCINE GIVEN—Hamlin residents turned out in good numbers Thursday to take the oral polio vaccine in a drive sponsored by the Hamlin Board of Community Development. Eight hundred and four doses were given on Thursday. Here, John H. Black, left, of the Public Health Department, assists nurses June Deel and Barbara Bell in giving the doses. Additional doses have been administered at the Hamlin Primary Building bringing the total up to 945 through Monday noon.

Setting the right example with medicines

Psychologists tell us that basic attitudes are all important in setting the life-style and habits of a youngster when he reaches the age when the apron strings are loosened and he has to make his own instant decisions about right and wrong.

Many of those important attitudes are formed early in life and are based on observation of what parents do—not what they say.

Ideally parents hope their children will learn to respect themselves, their fellow human beings and the world around them. Certainly an important element of self-respect is learning to respect your body.

Respect for your body involves many things, cleanliness, keeping fit, eating properly and using good sense in protecting your health.

Thoughtful parents have little problem in establishing the habits of cleanliness, fitness and good nutrition. But sensible health protection is something few people think about much. Yet the attitudes young people develop towards medicines and health care can be very important in later years.

The Council On Family Health, a non-profit, public service organization sponsored by leading medicine manufacturers, has some tips that could be helpful in teaching your child to think twice before taking medicines or other substances about which they know little.

These are some things you can do during those impressionable years to establish attitudes of proper respect towards medicines:

- Take your own medicines in private. No child should get the idea that taking medicines is an everyday occurrence.
- Make sure your child really needs medicine. Sometimes a headache or a tummy ache can be readily cured with a little attention. The main thing to avoid is setting a pattern where medicines are taken without a clear reason. Don't make a big deal out of taking medicine. Most children will take medicine without a fuss if you simply give it to them in no-nonsense fashion.

Avoid associating pleasure with medicine. Youngsters should not be told that medicine is like "candy."

These simple steps can help you to establish the proper attitudes towards medicines at a time when children set the traits that will last a lifetime.

Ninety-nine persons signed the register.

Mrs. Darrel Schenk and children of Logan, Utah, traveled the farthest to attend. She saw some cousins for the first time in twenty years.

A reunion was planned for the summer of 1971. The date will be set later.

Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Mac Lang of Lubbock are parents of a girl born June 28 at 10:02 p.m. She weighed 7 lbs. 13½ oz. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Compton and Mrs. Ruby Lang of Rotan. The mother is the former Donna Compton.

FROM THE FILES . . .

FORTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
(July 10, 1925)

All last week local showers visited sections of our country. Some communities were visited more than once and therefore received ample rainfall. Some sections received just enough and then there were others that got a slight sprinkle.

Last Friday, J. E. Moody, of Itasca Texas arrived to assume the duties of Manager for the Hamlin Cotton Oil Mill. Mr. Moody is a young married man and in a few weeks his wife and little girl will join him here. Mr. Moody takes the place of Mr. Fulford who recently moved to Dallas.

It was mentioned last week that the Hamlin Baptist Church had called Rev. Littleton, of Cross Plains to be their pastor. A telegram, Monday stated that he would accept the church here.

Rev. Littleton is a brother of Lee Littleton of this city and during the past few years he has made many acquaintances while on visits here.

Hamlin Motor Co., which has a home in the King brick was sold last week by Henry Reeves to Blair Boyd. Mr. Boyd is recently from San Francisco, but by no means a stranger to many people in Hamlin.

TWENTY YEARS AGO
(July 7, 1950)

The new west wing of the Hamlin Memorial Hospital has been completed from a construction standpoint and present plans of the hospital board call for the wing to be ready for occupancy between July 20 and August first.

When the new structure is accepted as a completed unit of the hospital, capacity of the institution will be 32 beds in 11 rooms which have been combined into four wards.

Hamlin Boy Scouts in attendance at the national jamboree at Valley Forge, Pennsylvania, have delegated Robert Bonner as reporter for the group and the Herald is in receipt of its first communication from Bonner.

Included in the group from Hamlin are W. L. Fletcher Jr., Don Johnson, Joe Don Hymmer, Robert Angel, Joe League, Guy Weaver and Robert Bonner.

A total of 3,000 bass fingerlings were put into the Hamlin Old Lake Friday afternoon under the watchful eyes of the Abilene District Game Warden and the superintendent of Game, Fish & Oyster Commission fish hatchery at San Angelo.

TEN YEARS AGO
(July 7, 1960)

With the Hamlin High School Band playing behind them, V. R. Leverett, superintendent of the Old Glory Schools; J. C. (Jake) Roberts, district highway engineer; and John V. Howard Jr., Hamlin Mayor cut the ribbon opening up the bridge crossing the Salt Fork of the Brazos.

With the new bridge completed it will give the people of Old Glory and Sagerton a closer link with the Hamlin people.

Eugene Knabel is trying to finish moving his jewelry business into his new building and get the stock arranged. He moved over the weekend and was open for business in the new quarters Tuesday morning. Knabel Jewelers' new building is located just north of his former quarters and is both spacious and modern through out.

Mrs. M. L. Smith, member of the Hamlin's Woman's Golf Association, will give a golf demonstration to the girls taking part in the Jaycee Recreational Program Thursday afternoon in the High School Gymnasium.

Thirty-two entries vied for honors in the Jaycee Tennis Tournament held here June 24 and 25 according to James F. Wright, tourney chairman.

Trophies were given to all first place single winners, 16, 17 and 18 year old first place winners and open doubles first place winners. All others received first and second place ribbons.

The winners were: twelve and under; Joe Adams, 1st, Donnie Jones, second, Boy's singles; Lois Patterson, 1st, Judy Jenkins, 2nd, Girl's singles.

A Radiant
CLEAN LIFE

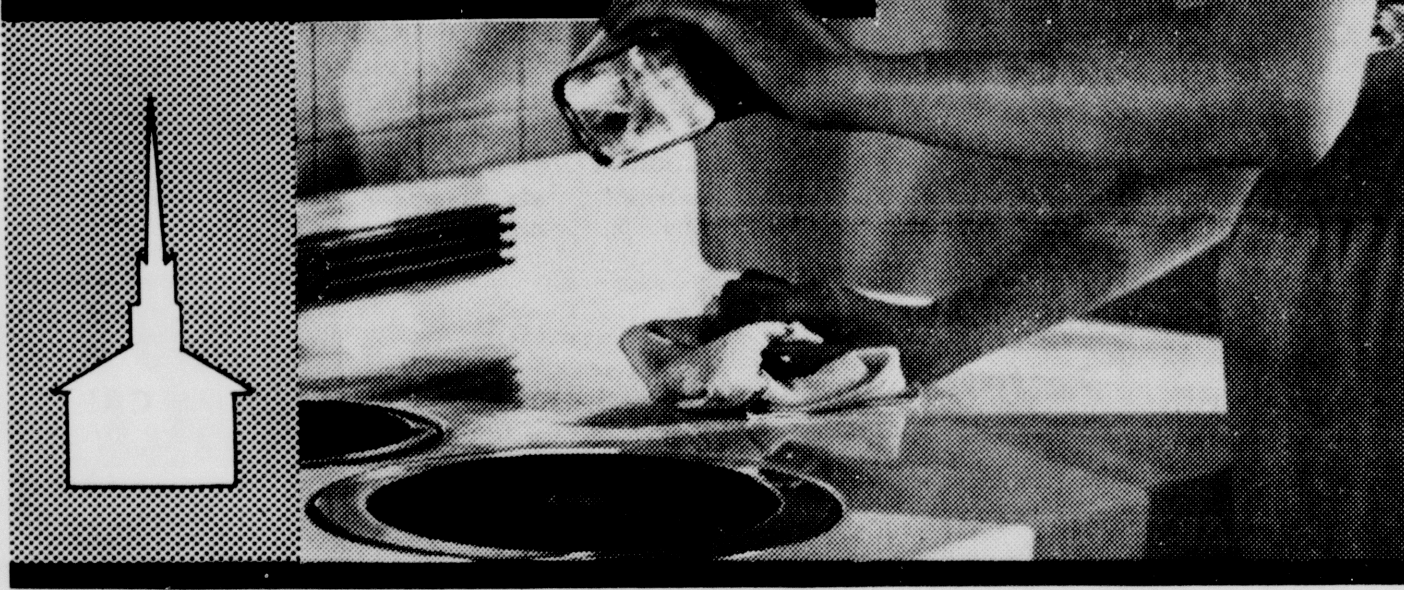

The housewife cleans her home until it shines with a radiance that gives contentment and joy to those who view it.

It pleases God to see our lives clean and wholesome. We all need help, to keep our lives clean.

David prayed to God for help in this matter.

"Create in me a clean heart, O God; and renew a right spirit within me."

Lean upon the Lord. Seek his help and he will not deny it. Attend church this Sunday and let your life be centered in the Lord.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

NEWS for OUTDOORSMEN

...By VERN SANFORD

Once in awhile an outdoor writer gets an opportunity to fish with a top-flight, A-#1, prize-winning, bass-fishing-champion. This was my good fortune and that of outdoor writer Earl Golding of the Waco News-Tribune one weekend at Toledo Bend.

It happened when a bunch of outdoor writers were fly-in guests of Hide-Away Harbor, Holiday Inn and the San Augustine C of C.

The expert was John Fox, National Bass Champion for 1968 . . . and an expert he is! Like most bass champions, Fox began making his own "bait" immediately after winning the national honor.

Fortunately for us John's trip out this time was to test his newest product, not yet on the market.

We were in John's own rig, designed strictly for fishing. All of the other ten host's boats went out about the same time and most stopped at the first likely point—about a half-mile from the launching ramp. John did, too.

With the wind rather calm, none of the boats anchored—just floated where they stopped and cranked up the kick-er only to come closer to shore when need be.

John brought in a half-dozen small bass before either Earl or I caught any. It wasn't long, however, before most of the boaters scattered for different areas. This was when John said "Now, I'll take you where the big ones are" . . . and that he did in short order.

Where did he go? To the brushiest area! But to him the brushiest area was the thickly wooded section where the "Iron Trees" were so close to each other that we could only reach his choice spots by pulling and pushing the boat from tree to tree, sometimes lying almost prone in the boat to clear the overhanging limbs.

Finally he found a spot that looked good. There he settled down to serious fishing . . . with plastic worms, of course.

You'll be interested in how John rigs up his gear. To begin with, John uses a heavy bass rod designed especially for worm fishing. It's a five-and-one-half footer, real thick at the handle and slowly tapers off to the end. Only really flexible part is the tip . . . for about the final 12 or 16 inches.

His choice is 20-pound monofilament line and a not-too-heavy, cone-shaped slip-sinker. He runs the line through the sinker's pointed end, first, then ties on a large and very sharp 5/0 drop-shaft hook. After inserting the point of the hook through the nose of the worm, about an inch or so, John turns the hook over so that he can imbed the point into the worm. This makes it weedless, without the use of a metal weedguard.

Naturally, he uses the Flut-tail Worm . . . his own brand . . . with a thin, flat, flexible tail.

In this case, John's experimental worm had a white tail. At its nose the worm was solid black, but it was lighter and lighter in color as it tapered to the end, becoming light gray as it reached the white tip.

That, and his Ambassador reel, comprised his fishing gear.

With no luck at the first spot, John moved to another, saying "Well, I know we'll get some lunkers now." And that he did and so did his two companions . . . thanks to him.

Here's how John did it. He dropped the worm lightly into the water, keeping the line tight as he slowly released it straight down alongside one of the multitude of "Iron Trees" that clutter the area. When the worm hit bottom, 30 feet down, John slowly began to retrieve it. Following his instructions, we did the same alongside other nearby trees.

Now, warned John, when you think you have snagged the hook, set the hook as hard and as fast as you can—because it's almost impossible to snag that hook if you have imbedded it into the body of the worm, properly. So, set it HARD!

Meanwhile, John pointed to small bubbles rising from the water where he had let down his lure. "See those bubbles—that's a sign the old hoss has opened his gills and is about to strike." And strike the bass did . . . but ever so gently. John set his hook so hard that we thought he'd go overboard. A fast reel-in brought up a beautiful four-pound black bass.

After stringing that one he let down the bait for another try—in the same spot. Shortly he had another of identical size. Within a period of 20 minutes he boated four, four-pounders. Same spot, mind you.

Then he said, Vern, you try it . . . the same way, in this same spot . . . and we came up with three three-pounders. Meanwhile, Earl was doing well, too.

So, that's how John Fox does it. First he finds them; then he works the same hole again and again. Some say you can't catch more than one bass in the same spot. But not John. He figures that when one lunker leaves the throne another moves in and takes over. Who's to argue that point when seven good ones come out of the same hole 30-feet deep and in an area no more than three feet in diameter.

John made a believer out of us!

Old Glory

BY BERNICE WHITE

News gathering in a small place sometimes gets to be quite a task. We thought there was not a thing here to write about. Then the Houston Chronicle Sunday magazine "Texas" featured an article on Old Glory and its 1970 graduating class of four. What seems to be the same old "stuff" to us was brought out to be unique and different. The graduating class of four was different? Recalling the class of 1935 when your correspondent graduated from this school the enrollment ran over two hundred but only four graduates. The case then was not lack of students, but drop-outs to help out at home with housework or farming, to get married, or just lack of interest in school work. Now the drop-out problem is almost unheard of here but the entire population in the community is only slightly higher than the scholastic population was at that time. But we do appreciate the nice article and colorful pictures by the people from Houston. It has helped us to realize how we look in the eyes of the "big city" people.

AUSTIN — A blue-ribbon insurance study committee has recommended exploring

Selling To Minors

By scrimping and saving, 14-year-old Freddie accumulated a nest egg of almost $400. One day he spent the whole thing on a shiny new motorbike that he had been eyeing in a store window.

A few days later, after a sobering talk with his parents, Freddie took the motorbike back to the store and asked for a refund. The merchant refused, but finally had to give in when the matter was taken to court. The judge reminded him that a minor has a legal right to back out of his contracts.

"Always," said the judge, "the courts have attempted to protect persons of tender years from the wiles of those who would take advantage of them and from the effects of their own folly."

This safeguard for the youthful purchaser, this "right to disaffirm," has been a part of Anglo-American law for centuries. It extends to anyone not yet of age, which usually means anyone under 21. In most states, it applies even if the merchandise has been damaged or destroyed—that is, even if Freddie had negligently smashed up the motorbike in an accident. His negligence, too, would be considered a part of his immaturity.

However, the right to disaffirm does not apply to the purchase of necessities, such as food, clothing, and medical supplies. A teenager might be able to cancel a purchase of costly, custom-made boots, but not a purchase of everyday shoes.

Furthermore, there are now growing doubts about the whole notion of a right to disaffirm. Today's youth, observed one court, are often more sophisticated than their parents—hence less in need of special protection. Certainly it isn't as easy to think of them as babes in the commercial woods when they are wielding a buying power of perhaps 25 billion dollars per year.

Accordingly, in varying degree, state legislatures have been getting stricter with young people. One way has been to hold them fully responsible for certain types of contracts, such as educational loans. Another way has been to lower the age of maturity to 18. Still another way has been to deny the cancellation privilege to any youth who has deceived the merchant about his age.

"The privilege may be used as a shield to protect the (minor)," said one court, "not as a sword to inflict injuries upon another."
